Yamashita Trial

Court Told of Irish Priests' Murder

THE massacre of 16 Catholic priests and more than 30 refugees by the Japanese, was described by Father Francis Cosgrave, an Irish-Australian priest, at the trial of General Yamashita yesterday, says Reuter.

"I was sitting with an old Irish priest, Brother Leo, when Japanese marines burst into the De La Salle College last February. An officer gave the order, and the marines began bayonetting and shooting everybody.

"Brother Leo said: 'They are going to bayonet us. Please give me absolution.'

"As I raised my arm a Japanese bayonet passed under it and through Brother Leo's chest. He fell dead across my knees before I could move. I was stabbed twice in the chest. A woman nearby, whose husband and children were already dead, tried to protect her last child, as the officer slashed at her with a sabre. She lived in agony until her death next day. I lay with a dead woman across my head and two dead men across my feet unable to move.

"That night in the chapel I found Brother Maximin lying across the Communion rails facing the altar. I hid behind the altar for three days, during which the organ and library were set on fire. On the third day I heard American voices outside. In my blood-stained robe I crept out to meet them."

M.P.s AT BLOWS IN NORTHERN COMMONS

MR. HARRY MIDGLEY struck Mr. J. Beattie twice yesterday in the Northern Ireland House of Commons.

Both former members of the Labour Party, Mr. Midgley is now Commonwealth Labour member for Willowfield, and Mr. Beattie is Independent Labour member for Pottinger.

Mr. Midgley had asked, during question time, that four queries to the Minister of Home Affairs should be adjourned owing to the illness of the Minister, Mr. E. Warnock. Later Mr. Beattie questioned the Speaker's right to allow questions to be withdrawn.

The Speaker said that a member had a right to withdraw questions. Mr. Beattie declared: "My point is that a question cannot be withdrawn."

Mr. Midgley asked by what authority and under what inspiration did Mr. Beattie take it upon himself to be the guide, philosopher and friend of the Speaker of that House.

Mr. Beattie said that the question he had raised did not concern Mr. Midgley at all. The question he had brought before the Speaker was whether a member's question should be postponed, and had nothing to do with Mr. Midgley.

Mr. Midgley—Mr. Speaker, can you tell me by what inspiration Mr. Beattie takes it upon himself to direct you, or must we wait meekly upon his visits here to know how to conduct the business of the House?

Mr. Beattie—Go and sit down, you galoot.

Mr. Midgley walked across to Mr. Beattie, who made another remark, which was not heard in the Press gallery.

Mr. Midgley shouted, "Mr. Speaker, will you ask this gentleman to desist?"

The Speaker ordered Mr. Midgley to resume his seat, but instead he rushed at Mr. Beattie and struck him on the face, knocking off his spectacles.

Mr. H. Diamond, Soc. Repub., Falls, intervened, and escorted Mr. Midgley to his seat.

Mr. Beattie rose and was following, when Mr. W. Grant, Minister of Health, walked across the House, and, taking Mr. Midgley by the arm, conducted him from the Chamber.

About an hour later there was another incident. Mr. Beattie, who had been out of the Chamber, hurried in, followed by Mr. Midgley, who struck him with his fist, shouting: "Don't you do that again."

Mr. Beattie drew the Speaker's attention to the incident.

Mr. H. Midgley.

Mr. Midgley was escorted out of the House by Mr. Diamond and an attendant.

Mr. Midgley, who resigned from the Northern Ireland Labour Party, formed the Commonwealth Labour Party, pledged to maintain Northern Ireland within the British Empire.

Mr. Beattie was suspended from the Labour Party for alleged non-co-operation regarding the proposed nomination of a candidate for a vacancy in the Northern Ireland Senate. He was afterwards a member of the Federation of Labour (Ireland) Party, which was in favour of the abolition of the border. He has now left this party and applied for re-election to the Labour Party.

PRESIDENT'S PLEA AT T.C.D. FOR REVIVAL OF LANGUAGE

SPEAKING at a meeting of Dublin University Gaelic Society, held last night to honour the memory of Thomas Davis, the President (Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly) said that the Gaelic League and Sinn Fein, and the results of those two movements—the foundation of Dail Eireann and the freedom of the greater part of the country—derived from the teaching of Davis.

The President, who was speaking to a paper read by Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy, added that he thought his listeners would agree with him when he said that but for the teaching of Thomas Davis and his comrades among the Young Irelanders there would hardly be a Gaelic Society in Trinity College to-day, or such a gathering in that Hall.

It was a step forward for the language and for the freedom of Ireland that a judge of the High Court should wish to speak to them in Irish. It was the father of the judge who first thought of founding The Nation; he also was Davis's greatest friend. The best way they could honour Davis and his comrades was to help the College Gaelic Society to restore the language in the normal life of the country, and to set alight throughout the land, and particularly in the soul of every student in their college, the spirit of nationality and of freedom.

Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy, in his paper, said the most fitting tribute they could have to Thomas Davis would be to keep the spirit of The Nation alive. Thomas Davis failed in some of his aims. The Protestant ascendancy did not remember the spirit of their ancestors, and they did not wish to have any part in the opinions and schemes of Thomas Davis for the benefit of Ireland.

Mr. Justice Gavan Duffy asked where did Trinity College and its students stand as regards the teachings of Davis which they cast aside 100 years ago. Trinity College, he said, was a great public force here, situated in the heart of the capital of Ireland. Its life was bound up with the life of the nation. There was great importance attached to its outlook on national affairs at this time when the old traces of the foreigner were still affecting the people. It was right for the good of the country, as Thomas Davis undertood it, that the people of the College should have their own part in the birth of the nation.

T.C.D.'S SERVICE

Mr. H. G. Foster, Auditor, said that some people in Ireland to-day thought that T.C.D. was a part of England in Dublin; that its students were seoinins who hated the name of Ireland. He would like to refute their statements. It was true that the students varied in political opinions, but the people who degraded them forgot the meaning of the word university as they also forgot Grattan, Tone, Flood, Emmet, Davis, and all the other Irish patriots T.C.D. had produced. T.C.D. did great service to the nation by the association of students of every creed and class within its walls.

Mr. A. O. Coirbhim also spoke. Professor E. O'Toole presided.

The President (who was accompanied by Mrs. O'Kelly) was received at the College entrance by the Provost (Dr. E. H. Alton).

Rise In Number Of Road Accidents

The number of road accidents was higher for the quarter year ending September, 1945, than for the same period of 1944, according to returns issued by the Commissioner of the Guards. There were 820 accidents in Eire, of which 37 were fatal, during the 1945 period, as compared with 644 (33 fatal) in the same quarter of 1944. The number of people injured was 384, as against 330 last year.

Prisoners Not To Be Released

A NATIONALIST Party motion calling for the release of political prisoners and internees was defeated by 24 votes to 12. The ten Nationalists voted for the motion with Mr. H. Diamond (Socialist Republican) and Mr. J. Beattie (Independent, Pottinger).

Mr. W. Lowry, Attorney-General, resisting the motion, said there was no more misused phrase than "political prisoners." 92 out of 98 long-term prisoners had committed the most damnable felonies and had hoped to get away with the statement, "we did it for Ireland." Five were in for a dirty, foul and brutal murder in April, 1942, and he was sure the House would remember the whimpering sniffles which had gone up to them when their just deserts were about to come upon them.

Four others were there for attempted murder, and six were found in possession of firearms and all sorts of dangerous matter and illegal documents, including advice on how to start air-raid sirens and confuse civil defence.

36 INTERNED

Mr. Lowry said that only 36 people were now interned. During the war and up to October last 827 had been interned, and, with a few exceptions, all of them had admitted the justice of the internment before being released. Those still interned wanted to be able to say—"We are the men who never gave in." If released they would rally round them hundreds who were ready to join them in any mad political folly.

SAVED FROM SCAFFOLD

He was satisfied that the Government had kept many a man away from the scaffold by keeping him out of dangerous company.

Throughout the last century, when clemency had been shown, it had never been appreciated, "but we have not been so dumb or stupid here."

Mr. Conlon (Nationalist), South Armagh, who moved the motion, said the Government's policy was not one of justice, but of fear. No secret policy would prevent the young men of Ireland from advocating a free and united Ireland.

The member went on to speak in Irish, and there were cries of "Order!"

IRISH UNITY

Mr. H. Diamond (Socialist Republican) alleged that the Ministry of Home Affairs had stolen the money collected for the dependants of internees, and said the Government had "committed seven murders as a result of internees contracting tuberculosis." The question of Irish unity was being discussed as far away as New York and San Francisco. Their friends in the United States were powerful, and they were going to make attempts to ensure that what they demanded would ultimately be carried out."

Mr. Topping (U., Larne) said that he was amazed to hear that those who had accused America of violating Irish territory were now seeking her support. Americans knew what it had meant to be deprived of the Southern Irish ports. Young Americans were going home to their families to tell how they had been treated in Northern Ireland.

Bid To End Civil War in China

The first snowfall of winter yesterday added to the suffering of millions of Chinese in the northern provinces, where fighting between Communist and Government troops continues, cables Reuter's special correspondent in Chungking. The Government has reported a breakdown in rail communications due to destruction of the tracks by "bandits."

Meanwhile, talks continue between political leaders in Chungking in an attempt to end the fighting before it spreads. A Communist spokesman said: "The most important thing right now is to stop this civil fighting by political agreement."

New President In Brazil

It was announced yesterday in Buenos Aires that President Vargas, "who has declined to continue the Government of Brazil," has declared that, in view of latest events and with the object of avoiding major disturbances from political motives, he will leave the Government and hand over power to Dr. Jose Linhares, President of the Federal Supreme Court.

General Vargas ruled Brazil for 15 years, says Reuter.

General Monteiro, Brazilian War Minister, after investing Dr. Linhares with the Presidential power, expressed the hope that the Brazilian elections would take place shortly—in December, if possible—and that the country would soon return to Republican constitutional normality.

PETROL RATION RUMOURS

Dublin's Rush For Driving Licences

WHILE the extent of the new basic petrol ration will not be announced officially for several days, it was freely rumoured in Dublin yesterday that the allowance will not be less than eight gallons per month for cars of 8 horse-power. A correspondingly bigger ration will be given to owners of cars of greater horse-power.

Doctors, clergymen, veterinary surgeons, Government officials and other "permitted users" of cars will receive the new ration in addition to their present allowances.

One effect of the resumption of private motoring here will be the lifting of the ban on tourists bringing their cars down from the North of Ireland. During the emergency the Eire regulation restricting motoring to certain "permitted" classes had debarred motorists from coming across the border on pleasure trips.

Dublin's 9.30 p.m. bus curfew, it is stated, will continue for the present.

Yesterday, for the first time in many months, the Dublin Corporation's Motor Registration Department at 4 Kildare street was really busy. From an early hour there was a constant stream of applicants seeking road taxation and driving licences, and at one time the staff of six appeared to have difficulty in coping with the rush. In fact, if yesterday's volume of inquiries is maintained the staff will have to be augmented. Unaware that the taxation office had been moved to Kildare street since 1940, many would-be motorists called at the old offices in Castle street.

By last evening thousands of laid-up cars all over the country were having their engines "turned over" for the first time in five years. For skilled motor mechanics it was their busiest day since 1940. Garage proprietors expressed the opinion that most cars could be prepared for the road in a comparatively short time.

The really big difficulty of obtaining sufficient batteries, they said, was likely to be the main drawback to modified resumption of motoring. Mr. E. J. Hart, Secretary of Exide Batteries (Ireland), Ltd., described the battery supply as "the crux of the whole situation." The dock strike in England, he said, had been holding up supplies, and he thought that the average motorist had little hope of getting a battery before 1946. Out of all the cars that were lying idle a relatively small number would be supplied with batteries before then.

BIGGER GARAGES

A tightening up during the war years of the conditions governing the operation of new garages is expected to provide Eire motorists with an efficient car-valeting service. Repair garages must now contain a ground floor space of 3,000 sq. ft., as against the 2,000 sq. ft. required heretofore, while their tool equipment has been expanded considerably. A scheme of compulsory technical school training for garage apprentices, approved by the Department of Education, came into force in January last.

The Society of Irish Motor Traders, Ltd., which has undertaken this new drive for bigger and more efficiently operated garages, expects it to result in greater safety for the driving public. While the Society is not empowered to make compulsory its conditions for providing better garage service, it has the support of the petrol companies, vehicle distributors and retailers in its drive. New garage owners neglecting to comply with the conditions are not given trade terms by wholesalers and are not supplied with petrol by the companies.

The British petrol ration for the months of September, October and November of this year is 5 gallons a month for cars up to 9 h.p.; 6 gallons for 10 to 13 h.p. cars; 8 gallons for 14 to 19 h.p. cars, and 8.3 gallons for cars over 19 h.p. The figures 7½, 9, 12 and 12½ in yesterday's issue were incorrect. The British ration permits of 150 to 230 miles a month.

CROSSING THE BORDER

In the Northern Ireland Senate yesterday, Mr. W. Wilton asked the Leader of the House whether steps would be taken to prevent Eire hackney garage proprietors from crossing the border and competing with Northern Ireland owners, whose activities were restricted to a 20-mile radius.

Sir Ronald Nugent said there was no question of competition, as all vehicles could stand and ply for hire only by licence.

Joyce Appeals Against Death Sentence

The appeal of William Joyce against sentence of death was opened at the Royal Courts of Justice, London, yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Humphreys and Mr. Justice Lynskey.

Joyce sat in the dock with four warders grouped around him.

Mr. G. O. Slade, K.C., opening the appeal, said that the Old Bailey Judge had ruled that it would remain for the jury alone as to whether or not at the relevant dates Joyce adhered to the King's enemies with intent to assist them.

"This appeal raises only pure questions of law," declared counsel. His main point of appeal was that the local allegiance due from an alien continued so long as he resided within the King's dominions.

The second main point of appeal was that neither the Central Criminal Court nor any other Court in Britain had jurisdiction to try the offence.

Mr. Justice Humphreys—Really, you are saying that the facts proved that there was no case to go to the jury?

Mr. Slade agreed.

The Lord Chief Justice—You say that an alien would owe allegiance at Dover, but would not when he got to Calais?

Mr. Slade replied, "Yes," and added that allegiance ceased when he got out of the three-mile limit.

Mr. Justice Humphreys—So that he is free to plot abroad against this country, though he means to come back the following day.—Yes.

The further hearing was adjourned until this morning.

Atomic Power "Headache" For Britain

MR. HERBERT MORRISON, Lord President of the Council, told the House of Commons last night that the foreign policy aspects and military potentialities of atomic energy were "terrific," and it was giving the Government a very bad headache. They could not make up their minds in five minutes on the way out of the vast problem, but they were considering the question at its highest level.

He was unable, in view of the Prime Minister's forthcoming visit to the U.S.A., to give the House a comprehensive statement, but indicated that the Government would maintain a high standard in fundamental research, and they would be as much concerned with peaceful aspects as with military possibilities.

Statements that atomic power would be in use for transport in two years were certainly too optimistic, said Mr. Morrison. The best expert view, he said, was that it would take at least ten years to develop the industrial process fully.

Captain Blackburn (Labour), who raised the subject, told the House of "an instrument which detects the release of radio active materials, and has been put in an aeroplane. By facing downwards it is able to detect all factories so far in use working on the release of atomic energy."

TRUMAN'S HOPE

President Truman hopes that, after the forthcoming talks with Mr. Attlee, he will be able to present to Congress a hard-and-fast agreement by the three Anglo-Saxon nations (Britain, the U.S.A. and Canada) on the control and use of atomic energy, it was learned in usually well-informed quarters in Washington last night, says Reuter.

Only if the Washington talks produce definite plans for an international conference is Russia likely to be drawn into these discussions, and then only as one of a number of nations.

The possibility of a "Big Three" meeting is apparently not out of the question, but, according to Reuter's Diplomatic Correspondent, reliable observers in London consider that the Attlee-Truman meeting is intended to be an Anglo-American affair, without prejudice to any "Big Three" meeting later.

GOVERNMENT UNWILLING TO INTERVENE IN DOCK STRIKE

STATING that reports from various areas indicated a growing desire to return to work, Mr. George Isaacs, Minister of Labour, said, in the House of Commons yesterday, that the Government did not intend to intervene in the dock strike.

Meanwhile, the Minister of War Transport has announced that more troops are being rushed to strike-bound ports to handle not only vital supplies, but all cargoes.

In London, where the position is unchanged, there has been no decision yet to take a ballot, as on Merseyside. In the Grimsby and Immingham ballot, 358 strikers voted for a resumption of work and 360 against. There were 32 spoilt papers.

About 200 men have returned to the docks.

There was no change yesterday in the situation at Belfast, where 1,200 men are out and 16 ships are affected by the stoppage. The food situation is not yet regarded as serious enough to necessitate bringing in troops.

Enough chlorine to last for a month will be flown to Londonderry from Liverpool to-morrow for the city's water supply. Supplies have been held up by the dockers' strike.

CERTAIN PRIORITIES

Mr. Isaacs said in the Commons that he had been assured that negotiations would proceed with all possible speed. In the meantime the Government was taking all necessary steps to deal with cargoes required for vital purposes.

When he was asked if he would give an assurance that sufficient military labour would be used to prevent bread rationing, Mr. Isaacs replied: "I am happy to have the authority of the Minister of Food to say there is no intention of rationing bread."

About a dozen M.P.s from the dock dispute areas met in a House of Commons committee room last night a deputation of 35 dockers from the London Central Dock Strike Committee, and from Hull and Liverpool.

The P.A. Lobby Correspondent adds that after the 90-minute discussion the M.P.s were extremely hopeful that if the fear of victimisation can be eliminated, the strikers will go back.

Union Dispute Delays Irish Steamer

The s.s. Irish Willow left Waterford port yesterday for St. John, New Brunswick, for a cargo of timber and wheat.

She had been held up in Waterford owing to a dispute arising out of the fact that one of the crew was not a member of a recognised trade union. A number of other minor issues are stated to have been involved in the dispute, which was amicably settled through the intervention of Mr. P. Ahern, the Cork delegate of the union, who travelled to Waterford to consult with the men.

Unions Break With Dublin Trades Council

Representatives of nine unions at a meeting in Dublin last night were unanimous in their decision to break with the Dublin Trades Union Council as a protest against the Council resolution censuring the Government for appointing Messrs. William O'Brien and Cathal O'Shannon to attend the International Labour Office Conference in Paris, and also as a protest against the statement of Mr. Gilbert Lynch, a trustee of the Council, who, speaking at the World Trade Union Council Conference in Paris, said that Ireland was fast becoming the last stronghold of Fascism in Europe.

The meeting also decided to invite all unions affiliated to the Congress of Irish Unions to a further conference on Tuesday fortnight to consider the advisability of forming a new Council.

The nine unions concerned in the breakaway are:—Irish Union of Distributive Workers and Clerks, Irish National Union of Vintners, Grocers and Allied Trades' Assistants, United House and Ship Painters and Decorators' Trades Union of Ireland, Irish Society of Woodcutting Machinists, Irish Engineering and Foundry Union, Operative Plasterers' Trades Society, Building Workers' Trade Union, Irish Seamen and Port Workers' Union, and Electrical Trades Union of Ireland.

Sourabaya Truce Broken

In spite of the truce arranged on Monday after the meeting between Dr. Soekarno and Brigadier Mallaby, fighting started again in Sourabaya yesterday.

After the cease-fire, young Indonesians swarmed into the street, shouting and cheering, evidently feeling they had won a victory over the British. They even demanded that the Union Jack should be hauled down from the building occupied by brigade headquarters.

Shooting went on intermittently all night.—(Times copyright, per P.A.)

Mayo Road Transport Strike Threatened

A threatened strike of Coras Iompair Eireann bus and road freight employees in Westport, which had already been postponed from Saturday last to yesterday, was again postponed yesterday to become operative on Monday next, unless the dispute between the workers and the Company is settled in the meantime. The strike would involve all Mayo, and services to Sligo and Galway would also be affected.

Mr. Churchill Regrets Government's Break With Tradition

AFTER Mr. Attlee had moved a motion of thanks to the Services on the victorious conclusion of the World War, yesterday in the House of Commons, Mr. Churchill said he regretted that the tradition of voting monetary rewards to famous victorious commanders had been abandoned on this occasion, and that no special mention of commanders had been made in the motion.

Mr. Churchill said that at least the two most famous soldiers produced by Britain since the Duke of Wellington should have received by name the thanks of the House, and that the name of General Eisenhower might have figured in the motion; for never did a man labour more to bring the whole force at his disposal into one integral whole, and never had a man more the goodwill of his British comrades than General Eisenhower."

Moving the motion, Mr. Attlee said that when the late Mr. Lloyd George moved a similar motion after the first World War, he said that if Britain had not responded to the challenge she might have become a prosperous people; she would also have become a despised people.

"In 1939," said Mr. Attlee, "if we had not fought and won, we would have ceased to exist as a people, in any real sense of the word. Our Commonwealth and Empire would have passed away. We would have been the slaves of a self-styled master race.

"I move this motion of thanks, therefore, with an even deeper sense of gratitude, realising how great is the debt we all owe to the men and women without whose courage and self-sacrifice none of us would be here to-day.

RETROSPECT

"Looking back over these six long years of war, it is difficult for us to estimate the contributions made to our victory by the various services or by particular commanders. We cannot weigh in any balance the value of those who endured in the dark days of defeat and those who conquered, and history sometimes does but scant justice to the former.

"It is, perhaps, to those who, in the days when our equipment was scanty and our full strength unmobilised, when our enemy was strong and flushed with victory, when our first Allies were beaten down, that our gratitude is especially due."

SYMBOLS

After recalling the days of the Battle of Britain, Mr. Attlee said it was not his intention to trace in detail the events of the years that followed. History would record them. After reference to those who planned and directed and to those who forged the weapons which delivered the mortal blow, Mr. Attlee said there was yet another essential for victory—"harmonious working with our Allies. Unity of action was achieved and, as symbols, three names were on all lips in that period of the war, until the day when the tide turned—Mr. Churchill, the late President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin."

Speaking of the part played by women, Mr. Attlee said: "The contribution made by women has been greater than ever before in history, not only in homes and factories, on the land, in transport and in the nursing services, but in civil defence and in the fighting forces, and even in the operational branches of the fighting forces."

Paying tribute to the Dominions, Mr. Attlee said Britain could never forget how, in 1939, the call to save civilisation met with an instant response from the Dominions.

He added that, above all, to-day they were expressing the gratitude to those who laid down their lives in freedom's cause, to all who had suffered wounds and imprisonment, and to all those who bravely had borne the loss of those dear to them. The least the House could do was to seek in every way to secure that their sacrifices had not been in vain.

"LET US RESOLVE"

Stating that he believed they had a vision of a world of peace and freedom and brotherhood, Mr. Attlee declared:

"It is for us to realise that vision.

"Let us all resolve in the days that lie before us to rise to the same great heights of courage, singleness of purpose and sacrifice as those men and women did during the war.

"The task before us is hard, but if we do this we cannot fail."

CHURCHILL TRIBUTE

Mr. Henderson Stewart (L. Nat.) suggested that a separate resolution should be tabled "paying a tribute of gratitude to Mr. Churchill, and coupling with his name the names of the few but great commanders who led our forces to victory."

Replying to Labour criticism, Mr. Churchill said: "If we had not in these islands produced a race capable of facing every danger and surmounting every difficulty and enduring every hardship which this war presented, we should have been utterly destroyed. Neither in the qualities of body nor of soul was the British nation found wanting in its supreme hour of trial."

The House of Lords yesterday unanimously approved a resolution of thanks to the Services, similar to that passed in the Commons.

BRITISH FINANCIAL EXPERTS LEAVE WASHINGTON

TWO members of the British financial trade delegation in Washington have flown back to London "to give the Cabinet special background information on the present deadlock in the negotiations," it was learned authoritatively yesterday. The two emissaries are Mr. Lionel Robbins, a member of Sir Percival Leisching's Commercial Policy Party, and Mr. Edmund Hall-Patch, of the Foreign Office.

It may be stated authoritatively, says Reuter's Special Correspondent, that the British Cabinet received the radically-revised American proposal at the beginning of last week with considerable surprise, since the offer differed so much from many earlier figures. Pending a full report from the emissaries, the British Cabinet has made no decision on the latest offer — a loan of $4,000,000,000 at 2 per cent. — and there is now a distinct possibility of negotiations still being "in the air" when Mr. Attlee arrives in Washington.

An official of the British delegation said yesterday that the situation is exactly as it was nine days ago, when Lord Halifax voiced the warning that difficulties should not be under-estimated and that the possibility of a final breakdown should not be excluded.

If agreement has not been reached, Mr. Attlee, it is considered, will discuss the deadlock with President Truman.

Observers in Washington stress that complete Anglo-American agreement on atomic energy and the control of foreign policy would be difficult to reconcile with the failure of financial negotiations and Britain's inevitable subsequent withdrawal into an "economic shell." The National Association of Manufacturers News, commenting on the possibility of Britain being forced back behind Empire trade barriers, wrote: "The British delegation has been informed that, should England continue to shut American exporters out of the sterling markets, some action on our part is bound to result."

Single Defence Chief Proposal.—The United States War Department yesterday proposed to Congress that the Army, Navy and Air Forces be placed under a single civilian "Secretary of the Armed Forces."

MR. LEMASS made a rather telling point the other day which I will quote, seeing that I have it at my finger-tips. (Holds out hands, indicates tiny writing on nails):

"Partition is not merely a wrong done this country and a source of contention between us and the British, it is a handicap to our free and full participation as a nation is the domain of world politics..."

And yet there are hotheads who would remove Partition—give us the right to participate in the domain of world politics, like . . . like Poland!

A Pen Friend

Here is an extract from a recent report:

"Mr. Bernard G. Davis, of the American publishing firm of Ziff-Davis Incorporated, was also on board the Skymaster. He will visit London, Paris, and then Dublin to meet industrialists, publishers and authors. He was met at the airport by Mr. Robert Briscoe, T.D. . . . Asked if he had any particular Irish writers in mind that he would like to meet, Mr. Davis said: 'I am leaving that to Mr. Briscoe, who is a very good friend of my partner, Mr. Ziff.' Mr. Briscoe told reporters that he made a provisional arrangement to have a special meeting of the Irish P.E.N. Club called to enable Mr. Davis to exchange views with leading Irish writers . . ."

All right by me—provided that this line-up of your men is photographed in technicolour and that Mr. Ziff is also present. And . . . em . . . a couple of leading Irish writers. (Begob this Rhineanna'll be the makings of yez yet!)

Joffre's Great Battle

Yes, it was a very interesting publication, that issue of the Freeman's Journal dated the 6th October, 1924. They had a story from Reuter dated "Paris, Saturday" and it is by now my personal scoop. (It's comparatively easy, I hold, being first with the news; but imagine being twenty-one years late with it? That's journalism! Here's what it was:

"The members of the French Academy, who are working on the compilation of the national dictionary, were surprised by an unexpected intervention at the last meeting, when Marshal Joffre, who frequently attends the sittings of the Academy, fougth (sic) a determined battle to prevent the word "défaitiste" finding a place in the national vocabulary. He declared that "defeatism" was not French, and could not be applied to Frenchmen, consequently the word had no business in the dictionary. The other members present immediately voted for the exclusion of the word, and applause greeted the Marshal's victory. . ."

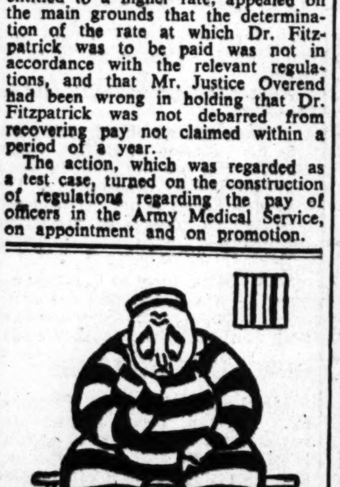
The cold logic, the admirable reason, the excellent lucidity of H.M. Mounseers, the French nation—to these qualities I have the honour to bow down in reverence. Words, me dear Field Marshal, words carry their own poison, nor, alas, are they amenable to the clarity, the brilliance, and, of course, the logic of the firing-squad's bullets. (I am.) The very best way of bringing things to an end is to issue a calm, sensible statement pointing out that they no longer exist. In the bright lexicon of youth, I remember once saying to Oscar Wilde, there is no such word as failure. The thing subsequently became law.

Judgment For Ex-Army Doctor Affirmed

The Supreme Court, Dublin, consisting of Mr. Justice Murnaghan, Mr. Justice Geoghegan, Mr. Justice O'Byrne and Mr. Justice Black, yesterday affirmed the judgment of Mr. Justice Overend in favour of Dr. Patrick F. Fitzpatrick, Crumlin road, Dublin, who had voluntarily retired from the Army Medical Service in 1943, and who had claimed that, on his promotion to the rank of acting commandant in July, 1940, his rate of pay should have been 37/- a day for the first two years of service and thereafter 42/- a day. The Court held that Dr. Fitzpatrick was entitled to the balance of such pay as was attributable to the period from October, 1942, to March, 1943, and they allowed him the costs of the appeal from Mr. Justice Overend's judgment.

The Minister for Finance and the Minister for Defence, who had contended that Dr. Fitzpatrick had been paid the rate appropriate to his rank—35/- a day—and that he was not entitled to a higher rate, appealed on the main grounds that the determination of the rate at which Dr. Fitzpatrick was to be paid was not in accordance with the relevant regulations, and that Mr. Justice Overend had been wrong in holding that Dr. Fitzpatrick was not debarred from recovering pay not claimed within a period of a year.

The action, which was regarded as a test case, turned on the construction of regulations regarding the pay of officers in the Army Medical Service, on appointment and on promotion.



5 YEARS HARD—

Yes, five long years and more have gone by since your last Morris model was designed — but they haven't been wasted. Car design has gone ahead in the war years.
We have learned a lot, and your new Morris (when it comes along) will be as far ahead of competition as it was in the days of yore. Battle-tested in every clime, Morris worthily upheld their claim to be 'Unchallengeable.'

IRISH BROADCASTING REVIEWED—2

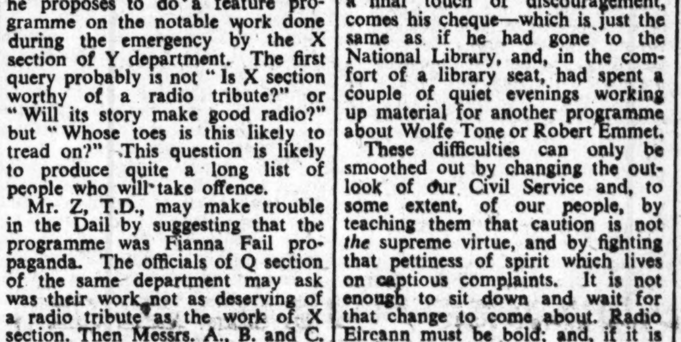
Script Writers' Difficulties

By Our Radio Correspondent

THERE was a time when I thought that the defects in our broadcasting service were due to the remarkable obtuseness of Radio Eireann officials. However, a series of discussions with them taught me that they were keenly conscious of the station's shortcomings, and, no matter what defects I pointed out, their arguments showed that they had carefully considered the problem of remedying them.

They would probably agree that a general improvement could be made by building a new station, where we should have studios in which the sound of musical instruments and voices would not come rattling raggedly back off window panes and uneven walls; where there would be room for modern radio equipment, and where there would be offices for the extra staff required. But in the matter of new buildings, the Government is not likely to give radio a high priority because of the need for houses, schools, and hospitals.

The most practical improvement would be to correct Radio Eireann's bias towards programmes about our past by giving us news, talks, discussions, and feature programmes about the world of to-day. To say this, however, is to invite Radio Eireann to sail out of its calm, sheltered harbour into a very choppy sea, where it will meet the brisk winds and smacking waves of public controversy.



About 4,500 years old, the round-bottomed clay vessel to the left is of the Neolithic period, and was found in a grave at Rath, Tullow, Co. Wicklow. The lidded pottery container for cremated bones (on the right) is from a grave at Ballinchalla, Co. Mayo, and dates from about 800 B.C. These recent finds now are in the National Museum, Dublin.

TAKING OFFENCE

To see this more clearly, let us imagine what may happen if a script writer or producer decides to do a feature programme about a contemporary or nearly contemporary event. Let us imagine that he proposes to do a feature programme on the notable work done during the emergency by the X section of Y department. The first query probably is not "Is X section worthy of a radio tribute?" or "Will its story make good radio?" but "Whose toes is this likely to tread on?" This question is likely to produce quite a long list of people who will take offence.

Mr. Z, T.D., may make trouble in the Dail by suggesting that the programme was Fianna Fail propaganda. The officials of Q section of the same department may ask was their work not as deserving of a radio tribute as the work of X section. Then Messrs. A., B. and C. down in the country, who had little squabbles with inspectors from X section, may write to complain about the programme. In fact, in a country where so many people have a fantastic readiness to take offence, there is no telling where a programme of this kind may raise trouble.

But suppose that Radio Eireann decides to risk the trouble, and tells the scriptwriter to go ahead. He calls at the offices of X section and explains his business; instead of being welcomed as a friend, he finds that his visit excites confusion, distrust and fear. The officials have not the habit of co-operating with Press or radio. They remember the time that Mr. O. had to go before the Minister because he admitted to a reporter that departmental form Q.Z. 26 had been replaced by form Q.Z. 26 (a). They see terrifying prospects that this broadcast will stir up trouble which will spoil their chances of promotion when Mr. S. goes out on pension next year.

NO ASSISTANCE

Our script writer, being unusually dogged, obtains official assent for the programme. He then finds that, owing to the lack of an efficient public relations organisation in the department, he cannot find any one man who can help him to build the framework of the story. He must go from office to office, and in most of them receives only grudging collaboration. At last he finishes his script, only to find that nobody in the department is willing to accept responsibility for passing it, and the station will not accept it without the department's approval. So the script is passed from office to office, may even be sent to the Taoiseach's department, and even then called back for re-examination. By the time the programme goes on the air the script writer is swearing that this will be the last radio programme he will ever do. Then, as a final touch of discouragement, comes his cheque—which is just the same as if he had gone to the National Library, and, in the comfort of a library seat, had spent a couple of quiet evenings working up material for another programme about Wolfe Tone or Robert Emmet.

These difficulties can only be smoothed out by changing the outlook of our Civil Service and, to some extent, of our people, by teaching them that caution is not the supreme virtue, and by fighting that pettiness of spirit which lives on captious complaints. It is not enough to sit down and wait for that change to come about. Radio Eireann must be bold; and, if it is to be bold, it must strengthen its position by loosing itself from direct Government control.

ATOMIC ENERGY

The Royal Dublin Society's winter session will open on Friday next with an evening lecture by Dr. E. T. S. Walton, F.T.C.D., on man's new power of unlocking some of the vast stores of energy contained in the atomic nuclei—a discovery with such vast possibilities, both for good and evil. Dr. Walton and his co-worker, Dr. J. D. Cockcroft, were the first to show that atomic nuclei could be broken up by purely electrical means, and thus to provide an important link in the long chain of discoveries which have led up to the latest developments.

Magdalen Asylum Appeals.—The annual charity sermons in aid of the Magdalen Asylum, Lower Gloucester street, Dublin, will be preached on Sunday at the 12 o'clock Masses in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, by the Rev. C. O'Driscoll, O.S.A., and at St. Agatha's, North William street, by the Rev. Gerald, O.F.M.Cap.

Fraud Charges Against Former Auctioneer

Bernard J. Brangan (26), who formerly carried on business as an auctioneer at Leinster street, South, Dublin, appeared in the Dublin District Courts yesterday on summonses which alleged that he converted to his own use £263, the proceeds of the sale of furniture which he sold for Mrs. Nora O'Beirne, Adelaide road, Dun Laoghaire; £250 entrusted to him by Mr. L. J. Egan, solicitor, Lower Ormond quay, as deposit on the purchase money of a house at Royal Marine terrace, Bray, and £200 paid to him by Valentine McCarthy, Windsor terrace, Portobello, Dublin, as deposit on a house at Hannaville Park, Terenure.

Mr. F. O'Flynn (Chief State Solicitor's Office), who prosecuted, said that on or about April 14th last Brangan had been adjudged bankrupt on his own petition.

Mrs. N. O'Beirne said that an auction of her furniture took place on March 21st. The following night she rang up Brangan, who said that he had got £350 for the furniture. She had not received any payment from him.

Frank Robinson, Upper Glenageary road, who acted as clerk for Brangan at the sale, said that the proceeds realised £255 19s.

Valentine McCarthy, grocer and wine merchant, said, following a call at Brangan's office, he went to inspect a house at Hannaville Park, Terenure. Later he met Brangan at the latter's office, where he had a cheque made out for £230, payable to Messrs. Arthur Cox and Co., solicitors for the vendor. Brangan said the cheque should have been made out to himself, and not to the solicitors, as the complete cost was £1,130, of which he (Brangan) was to get £30 as commission. At Brangan's suggestion, he changed the cheque, making it payable to himself and initialling the change, and Brangan undertook to have the cheque cashed and to remit £200 to Messrs. Cox the following day. Subsequently, his (McCarthy's) account was debited with £230, and later he paid £900 to Messrs. Cox and Co. to complete the purchase of the house, of which he was now in possession.

Mr. Liam J. Egan, solicitor, said that his firm acted as solicitors for Mrs. Sarah Citron, Bloomfield avenue, S.C. road, for the purchase of a dwellinghouse at Royal Marine terrace, Bray. He signed a cheque, payable to Brangan, for £265, being £250 deposit on the house and £15 auctioneer's fees. The defendant took the cheque away and subsequently sent him a receipt.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until November 8th next.

BRONZE MEDALS FOR LIFE SAVERS

It is announced that the Royal Life Saving Society is now in a position to resume issuing bronze medallions and bars to bronze medallions to successful candidates, and they request that all token certificates issued during the war be returned to Desborough House, 14 Devonshire street, Portland place, London, W.1, immediately. Owing to the scarcity of metal, token certificates have been issued since 1943 and there are over 500 now to be redeemed in Eire.

BROKE 153 PANES OF GLASS

Thirteen boys, whose ages ranged from seven to eleven years, appeared on remand in the Children's Court yesterday charged with breaking 153 panes of glass, valued at more than £44, in various parts of the city.

District Justice McCarthy said that the parents would be unable to pay for the damage done and ordered them to pay 5s. for each boy.

UNIVERSITY NOTES

T.C.D.

From Our Correspondent

IT is one of the most valuable traditions of the College Historical Society to introduce distinguished speakers from England to a Dublin audience. This year the Auditor of the "Hist," Mr. R. V. Heuston, Sch., has secured two distinguished English publicists and scholars—Professor D. W. Brogan and Mr. R. B. McCallum—to speak to his inaugural address on "Public Opinion and Politics" next Wednesday in the Dining Hall.

Both speakers are "dons" in England's most famous universities—Oxford and Cambridge. Mr. Brogan is Professor of Political Science at Cambridge, where he is a Fellow of Peterhouse. He is a leading writer on public affairs. Mr. McCallum, who is a lecturer in Political Science at Oxford, and a Fellow of Pembroke, has also written several books. Mr. P. S. O'Hegarty and Sir Shane Leslie will also speak.

The D.U. Metaphysical Society will hold its opening meeting next Tuesday, when Professor Macbeath, of Queen's University, Belfast, will read a paper on "Duty." The chair will be taken by the Rev. Professor Luce, S.F.T.C.D.; and the Rev. Professor Hartford and Professor J. A. Coutts, F.T.C.D., will be the speakers.

U.C.D.

From Our Correspondent

NEXT week the members of the Association football club will celebrate the golden jubilee of its entry into competitive football with a programme of social and sporting functions. Started in the early '90s as the Catholic University A.F.C., the club had on its early teams many present-day members of the staff, including Professors Meenan and O'Kelly. To ensure the success of the celebrations, a large committee of students and graduates, headed by the club president, Professor E. Keenan, has been working all through the summer, compiling records for publication in a commemorative brochure. Outstanding in 50 years of continuous activity—an unusual record for any University sports club—are the two occasions on which a College XI won the Intermediate Cup—in the present season and in 1915. The present Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, Dr. F. C. Ward, captained the victorious 1915 team.

As a result of recent negotiations, there are considerable prospects of sporting contests with English and Scottish universities being held early next year. Already preparations for the visit of an English Rugby XV late in February have followed the approval of the Irish and English Unions, and a representative match has been arranged for Lansdowne road on Wednesday, February 27th. Next week's Universities v. The Rest game will probably decide whether a representative Association team could be fielded.

Boxing is another sport in which pre-war rivalries will soon be renewed; the U.C.D. Boxing Club has arranged a tournament against one of the Midland universities in March, and hopes to have an English team competing in the championship later in the year.

Help Of Women Needed To Save Europe

Addressing the Irish Women's Citizens' Association yesterday, Miss R. Jacob said that the bad state of Europe to-day was due to the fact that women had no part in planning for the reconstruction of the Continent. "In spite of the mess men have made of international affairs," she added, "the women of the victorious nations are letting a few male politicians and generals drive the world straight along the same old paths that always lead to war and disaster."

She suggested that, to save atomic wars in the future, women will have to force their way into the head councils of the nations.

WEDDINGS

Glancy—Bohn.—The wedding took place yesterday at the Star of the Sea Church, Sandymount, of Dr. Brian Glancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Glancy, Tullyworgle, Armagh, and Miss Maureen Bohn, daughter of Mr. Joseph Bohn and the late Mrs. Bohn, Glenesk, Claremont road, Ballsbridge, Dublin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. Perkins, C.C., assisted by the Rev. J. F. O'Regan, C.F., and the Rev. A. J. Sheridan. The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by two bridesmaids, Dr. Mary Lochrin and Miss Maire Glancy. Dr. Hugh Glancy was best man, and the groomsman was Dr. Joseph F. Bohn.

Ashdown — Pielou. — The wedding took place at Christ Church, Lisburn, of Lieutenant Maurice C. Ashdown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ashdown, Chasnell, Tonagh Park, Lisburn, and Miss Leslie M. C. Pielou, W.A.A.F., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Leslie Pielou, Annandale, Sandford road, Dublin. The Service was conducted by the Rev. J. E. C. Parr, B.A. The bride was given away by her father. Lieutenant A. Askew, R.N.V.R., was best man, and Mrs. Sanchia Dawson, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honour.

THE DUTCH DILEMMA

The "cease fire" has sounded in Surabaya, and, for the present, a state of uneasy truce—whose uneasiness is proclaimed by the fact that it already has been disturbed by a mob of youths—exists between the Allied forces in Java and the Indonesian Nationalists. Already 20 British soldiers have been killed, and 59 others wounded, in the ungrateful task of suppressing a rebellion on behalf of the Dutch; and there is little doubt that their comrades feel, even more bitterly than those who were called upon to intervene in Greece, that they are risking their lives in a quarrel that is none of their business. On the face of it, the only parties who are concerned in the question of Indonesian independence are the Javanese Nationalists and the Government of the Netherlands—represented respectively by Dr. Soekarno and Dr. van Mook. Yet Britain is in a curious situation. In view of the necessity of maintaining cordial relations in Western Europe, it is hard for her to take any action which would antagonise the people of Holland—as the people of France were antagonised by the Syrian incident, though they may have been won back by British intervention on their behalf in Indo-China. Even the Economist, not usually regarded as an organ of imperialism, has urged that the maintenance of this western bloc in Europe is a matter of prime importance, and that it justifies the support of the Dutch by British arms in Java. Secondly, if Britain accepts, even by implication, the right of Dr. Soekarno's "Government" to be regarded as anything but a rebellious faction, tainted by collaboration with the Japanese, she raises at once the question of her own Colonies and dependencies in the Far East. Obviously, her desire is to restore the status quo in the Pacific, apart from the deletion of Japan. She assumes her own right to resume control of Burma, Malaya, and North Borneo; consequently, she scarcely can accept the thesis that the Dutch or the French ought to be thrown out of Indonesia or Indo-China. By a simple progression, therefore, she finds herself not only on the side of the masters, but engaged in holding the subjects down until the masters arrive and can do the job themselves. The moral argument is that Dr. Soekarno and his colleagues collaborated with the Japanese, and, therefore, are not the people to whom the future of any people can be entrusted. This may be a little difficult of comprehension to the citizen of Batavia or Surabaya, who sees Japanese troops, still armed, fighting against the Nationalists on the orders of the Allied military governors. If I "collaborated," he well may ask, what do you think you are doing?

In some ways the conflict between Dutch and Indonesians is not unlike that between the former British authorities here and the Irish Nationalist movement. For Dr. Soekarno and his associates, the immediate enemy was the Dutch; they accepted co-operation with the Japanese, one must suppose, as Sir Roger Casement and others accepted the assistance of Germany, because they believed that any ally might be called upon against the great enemy. There is no doubt that the Japanese, for their part, played a fairly skilful game. They may have proved to be something less than magnanimous liberators; but they gave some scope to Indonesian nationalistic aspirations, and, if they exploited, they exploited, at any rate, as equals. "Asia for the Asiatics" was a mighty slogan in its way. The Dutch called upon the Javanese in the name of freedom to resist the Japanese onslaught. The Javanese answer was that they had more chance of gaining the freedom that they wanted under the Japanese than under the Dutch. Dr. Soekarno ought to have said: "Non tali auxilio"; but it is unfair to treat him as a collaborator in the European sense. He was not, so far as can be gathered, an advocate of totalitarianism; he was merely a Nationalist. If talks can proceed upon that basis, there is, perhaps, some hope that a solution may be achieved. Dr. Soekarno himself is described by the correspondent of The Times as a moderate. He said: "We want no imposition of a Dutch Queen over us"; but it is possible that he will be willing to accept home rule within the framework of a Dutch Commonwealth, as was suggested by Queen Wilhelmina in 1942. The extreme members of his party, however, are the real danger. Once again the parallel of Ireland becomes evident; and we believe that Dr. Soekarno might learn from the example. In practice, it is extremely uncertain whether his "Government" would be in any position, even if it were given complete control, to exercise its authority effectively over the seventy million people of Indonesia—not more than one million of whom can be claimed as active supporters of his party. The co-operation of Holland would seem to be essential. As for the Dutch themselves, the East Indies are almost the corner-stone of their economy. These islands are, undoubtedly, the most profitable colonies in the world. A threat to Dutch financial interests there would be a threat to the standard of living of Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Bergen-op-Zoom. The solution of the problem will be very difficult to achieve; and yet it must be achieved, if only because Indonesia has become the test-case for the peoples of Asia. From this example they will judge whether the Atlantic Charter had universal application, or whether it was intended only for people with white skins.

A Clean Sweep

Chimney sweeps, as a class, do not presume much upon the public conscience. They do not complain, as farmers are accustomed to do in the opposite case, when a long spell of warm weather causes fewer fires to be lighted and fewer chimneys to be choked. They do not write letters to the newspapers bemoaning the hardness of their lot. It is exceptional, indeed, when they are sufficiently worked up about their wrongs to offer a single parliamentary question to even the most eagerly publicity-hunting T.D. or M.P. One cannot feel, then, that they got more than their deserts when the British Minister of Food acceded recently to a request that sweeps "in private practice" should be granted an extra soap ration. Nothing is said of the rights of sweeps, if any, who are not in private practice—sweeps who are engaged on research work, for example, or county sweeps. Juveniles, however, need no special reference; for the day of the child sweep is over, and Lamb could walk from end to end of London to-day without meeting one of "those tender novices, blooming through their first nigritude." Indeed, if law had not put children out of the profession, the architects would have done it; for the chimney of the modern house would baffle even a "Living Skellington," and any remaining dwellings with chimneys wide enough to accommodate an infant sweeper are not occupied, but are pulled down for scrap. No doubt, in Ireland, chimney-sweeping is enjoying a boom. The practitioners are so modest, and obscure their light so thoroughly under bushels of soot, that one might be tempted to forget that their engagement books are very well filled at the moment. Turf leaves a deposit round the inside of a chimney which can be compared only to the fur on the throat of an influenza patient; and the wise householder understands that this increases the risk of fire, and makes more frequent and more thorough chimney cleaning very necessary. A gentle operation by a private practitioner is infinitely preferable to the attentions, however skilful, of a public fire brigade.

A DANISH BOY

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Once again, the Minister for Education is quite irrelevant; therefore, very reluctantly, I encroach on your space for a second time. His approach to the subject under discussion is certainly not that of an educationalist, but is typically that of a politician. Unable to refute my argument, which was a plain statement of educational fact, he attempts to discredit me and the school of which I am proud to be Headmaster, and then throws over everything a splash of political whitewash.

My statement that the Danish boy came to this school from another Drogheda secondary school is correct. Most of his time had been spent acquiring a knowledge of Irish to the detriment of other subjects. He came here in the middle of a school year, and spent the remainder of that year in a preparatory class, but he could not have been considered a product of our preparatory department, in which his education would have been on a more liberal basis. I do not propose to reply to the Minister's outrageous and libellous assertion that Irish is taught in this school only for grant-earning purposes, and that slacking in that and other subjects is "permitted, and perhaps encouraged." That underhand allegation is not consistent with the fact that the reputation of Drogheda Grammar School is steadily mounting and the number of pupils steadily increasing; nor is it consistent with the reports received over the past six years from the Department's inspectors.

As to the extent to which modern Continental languages are taught in Eire, a few facts will emphasise my point. There is one centre for boys for the Intermediate examination in Drogheda, and each year the only candidates in French are from the Grammar School. In the 1943 Intermediate examination, the most recent for which I have full results, 4,357 boys entered. Of these only 15 per cent. took French, and of that number 53 per cent. failed. It is not necessary to search for the cause of such an unsatisfactory state of affairs.

With the exception of the last paragraph of his letter, all other points raised by the Minister have already been dealt with in my last letter. As the last paragraph is political whitewash, and I am concerned only with the educational aspect of the controversy, it would be quite out of place, and changing the whole point of the argument, if I were to attempt to lead his Department out of their Gaelic blackout. My friend, Myles na gCopaleen, who has already stated my case in his inimitable manner, will, I am sure, deal with that part of the Minister's letter in his usual "loosed" style.

In conclusion, the Minister must feel very gratified to know that the many French children now in this country will return to France better Frenchmen as a result of instruction in and through Irish in many Eire schools. They certainly won't get much instruction in their own language.—Yours, etc.,

W. FLEMING THOMPSON.

IRISH DOCTORS IN ENGLAND

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—As a doctor who is both on the General Medical Register of the General Medical Council, and also the Medical Register of the Free State (now Eire), it was with the utmost concern that I read the article in to-day's issue of the Irish Times on the proposed rigid control of Irish doctors in Britain. Perhaps, the British Ministry of Health would be considerate enough to clarify the position and inform us, through the medium of the Irish Medical Association, if the doctors who are already on the G.M.C. Register, prior to the establishment of the Irish Free State Medical Register, and who are legally entitled and authorised to practise in the British Isles, or in any part of the British Dominions or Colonies, without interference or hindrance, will be subject to this control.—Yours, etc.,

PRISONERS IN PORTLAOIGHISE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The statement issued by the Government Information Bureau admits that nine prisoners in Portlaoighise have for years been confined in cells without any outdoor exercise, for refusing to wear prison clothes, but omits to mention that the number of prisoners involved was originally 14, and it was only when last year, one of them went mad and had to be transferred to Grangegorman Lunatic Asylum, that the others were accorded the "three hours daily association in a recreation room." Subsequently several were transferred to the more normal conditions of the Curragh internment camp—presumably to save their reason.

The point is, nine Irishmen in Portlaoighise are being treated in a way none of us would treat our dogs; or, if any one did, he would render himself liable to prosecution by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

In my lifetime I have seen that old British Prison Rule, against which the late William O'Brien, M.P., made such a brave fight, but failed to get it abolished, lead to more prison tragedies, deaths, insanity, hunger strikes than any of the other prison rules of the early nineteenth century, which in the twentieth still form the basis of our prison system though they urgently need reform.

Can we, now that Irish prisoners are our own responsibility, allow this to continue?

Shall we not, in the memory of young John Manderville, the Tipperary athlete, who was the first man to die in W. O'Brien's fight, locked, naked, in his unheated cell, from which his jailers had removed his clothes, and also his blankets, because he had the courageous endurance to refuse to wear prison clothes; and, in memory of Tomas Ashe and the other men who died in protest hunger strikes against the old Rule, insist that our Government abolish it before it causes fresh tragedy? Then let us ask our Government to set up a Prison Reform Commission, to overhaul all those ancient British rules, and try to devise a prison system more suited to Irish character and needs.

Let us, while we are about it, now that the World War is ended and our neutrality no longer in danger, in the name of goodwill, further ask our Government to amnesty any I.R.A. men still in the jails, so that our whole nation may in peace work for Ireland's reconstruction with confidence in Irish justice.—Yours, etc.,

BARRETT—Tuesday, October 30, 1945, at Mater Hospital, Dublin, Julia, widow of Stephen J. Barrett, late of 55 Blessington street, Dublin. R.I.P. LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON.
TUESDAY NIGHT.

UNANIMOUS approval has been given in the world Press to the appointment of Sir John Boyd Orr as first Director-General of the Food and Agricultural Organisation of the United Nations, as much of the success of Britain's war-time "austerity" diet has been due to his advice on nutritional balance.

"If the British Government will carry out the recommendations of the Hot Springs Conference," Sir John said, before leaving London for Montreal, "farmers in these islands are in for a long period of great prosperity in agriculture, as well as a great advance in the health and physique of the rising generation. The application of the knowledge we now have on the importance of food for health is of fundamental importance, both for public health and for agriculture."

Surveyed Britain

Sir John Boyd Orr was responsible for the dietary surveys done in Britain, which showed that between a third and a half of the population did not eat sufficient of the protective foods for health. The main cause of the faulty diet was the fact that sufficient of the relatively expensive protective foods was beyond the purchasing power of poor families. He issued a warning in 1934 that an economic system, which involved the restriction of the production and distribution of food urgently needed, was one which could not endure. His researches at the outbreak of the second world war established that in the best-fed nations between one-fifth and one-third of the population did not enjoy a diet adequate for health, and that in many countries most of the population was in this condition.

Dumping to End

The long term policy now being evolved by the United Nations food organisation would put an end to dumping, stated Sir John in Montreal recently. The consumption of protective foods would be increased in all countries, in some of them to a much greater extent than in the British Isles. Wheat, the foodstuff which caused most trouble in the past, would be, for a time at least, in short supply, and even if there should be a temporary world surplus of wheat from a bumper crop, it would not upset the markets, because the organisation would have power to purchase stocks and stabilise the markets. A reservoir of foodstuffs would be an essential feature of the new food plans. Virtually every foodstuff could be conserved and stored, and it would thus be possible to offer the farmer a guaranteed market.

BRIAN BOYDELL'S NEW SYMPHONY

The most interesting item in last night's concert by the strings of the Dublin Orchestral Players was the first performance of a Symphony for Strings (Op. 26) by Brian Boydell, their conductor. The work is in three movements, opening with a slow section in which is announced the theme, which the composer proceeds to develop through the subsequent movements. The development is handled in scholarly style, the ingenious use of different keys simultaneously making for effective colour, and this, with a strong rhythmic surge, makes the work most attractive and interesting. The orchestra rose splendidly to the composer's demands. Their tone, in the main, was pleasant and tuneful, and they were well on the beat. Particularly admirable was their playing of the slow second movement, where there was outstanding work by the leaders of the various groups.

Other works performed were the Concerto Grosso in B flat (No. 7 of Op. 6), by Handel; Elgar's Serenade for Strings, the Suite from Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas," and Holst's lovely little "Brook Green" Suite.

BUILDING LECTURE

Structural methods in relation to building were illustrated by lantern slides during a lecture given to the Architectural Society of Ireland, Merrion square, Dublin, last night by Dr. Oscar Faber. The title of the lecture was "Engineering in Building."

EUROPEAN CHURCH RECONSTRUCTION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I correct an error in the report of the address by the Bishop of Ossory to Ferns Diocesan Synod which appeared in yesterday's issue? His Lordship is reported as having said "that Ferns Diocese had contributed £2,520 4s. 4d. to the fund for the reconstruction of European churches. It was the largest contribution from any diocese."

The Diocese of Ferns has, indeed, given with unequalled generosity to this fund. It was expected to give £400, and it has given £2,520, but it is not correct to say that its contribution is the largest from any diocese. Dublin has given £3,411 13s. 11d., but, of course, it is a very much larger diocese. It is true that the united diocese of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin, with a contribution of over £5,389, has given more than any other united diocese. The Church of Ireland, in keeping with its position as a true branch of the Catholic Church, has been mindful of its sister Churches on the Continent in their hour of distress, and every diocese has contributed most liberally to this fund. The amount given by the whole Church of Ireland exceeds £26,000.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM P. WEBB,
Archdeacon of Glendalough,
The Rectory, Rathdrum,
Co. Wicklow.

TORC WATERFALL

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—In your issue of October 26th you published an extract from, or synopsis of, the reply made by the Minister for Lands to the question asked by Deputy O'Donoghue in the Dail with regard to the proposed felling of trees at Torc Waterfall. It is not stated therein that the Minister, in reply, admitted that the felling proposed was "rather heavy," or that he sought to justify it by adding: "Any trees to be felled are being specially selected with a view to supplementing the efforts being made to provide as much material as possible for urgent national requirements, particularly building."

Reading between the lines, I believe this latter statement to mean that the Department want to cash in on their best timber while the going is good before the market slumps. Surely there is plenty of good commercial timber elsewhere without spoiling a beauty spot—a spot to view which the Board of Works actually charge a toll.

Nobody could reasonably object to a gradual felling of mature trees and replanting, spread over a number of years, but it is feared that this is not the policy of the Department with regard to Torc. The people of Killarney and the many thousands who have happy memories of the beauty of Torc would like to know what the Minister means by "rather heavy" felling. Does it mean, as I believe it does, that 80 per cent. of the lovely trees are to disappear?

Torc forms portion of the National Park, presented to the nation for the use and enjoyment of the people, but, against the spirit of this magnificent gift, this portion is now to be exploited by the Forestry Department for commercial purposes, and, no doubt, to the satisfaction of the Minister for Finance in his official capacity.—Yours, etc.,

HENRY J. DOWNING,
Chairman of Killarney Urban Council and Killarney Tourist Association, New street, Killarney.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

First Steps

AFTER lunch, yesterday, three gentlemen came out of a well-known Dublin Hotel. They climbed into a small, brand-new English saloon, with trade plates strapped to its bumpers.

After some groping about one of the gentlemen succeeded in starting the engine. He seemed unaccustomed to the machinery. The second gentleman, sitting beside him, watched this manœuvre with a kind of tenderness. His arm was along the back of the driver's seat.

After a moment the small English saloon gave a sharp scream. It was clear that first gear had been engaged. There was a second of quivering suspense, and then the driver, very cautiously, let in the clutch. The small English saloon leaped briefly, nearly stopped, gathered itself, and then, very, very slowly moved off down the street.

Two involuntary blasts came from the horn, there was another scream as second gear was engaged, and the small English saloon tottered away round the corner, gently disappearing from sight.

Boom!

It was a beautiful spectacle. It was a man buying a new motor-car, in preparation for the enjoyment of private motoring.

I knew it was a man buying a new motor-car, because the citizen sitting beside him in front was a well-known Dublin motor trader. And when motor traders put an arm round the back of your seat, and tenderly listen to the insides being torn out of a new gear-box, then you know that a sale is on.

But who will deny the motor traders their present hour of triumph? Not I, should they slip me a ten-horse job with good tyres, in p.m.o., free of charge. It seems that the motorless motorist is going to need some inside line like this to take the weight off his war-torn feet.

There is, in fact, a terrible rush going on. The motor traders yesterday were exhausted, in a pleasurable way, of course, with answering the telephone. Customers were booking new cars, as yet non-existent, as quickly as the motor traders could write down the name and address. And they were offering double the pre-war price for secondhand stuff. There seems to be a very great deal of money floating about; and nobody wants to be left on a bicycle while the man next door drives past in a car.

Guessing Game

But in the midst of all this rejoicing there is one little matter about which people are getting rather sour.

Does anybody, by any chance, happen to know what the basic ration is going to be? We spent a considerable time yesterday listening to the engaged signal from the motor traders' telephones. When we did get on we asked the motor traders about the basic ration, and they said we were the first people they would give the information to, if they had it. We went on being the first people all day. Late in the evening I caught up with somebody, personally, who said that he knew the answer, but could not possibly let it out.

All this secrecy, of course, was not the fault of the motor traders. Orders Had Come from Kildare street. Nothing must be Said until the Time was Ripe.

It passes my comprehension—I'll let it past your comprehension, too, if you like—why the Government should tell us we can have petrol and then invite us to guess how much. Could the whole thing not have been done at the same time? I mean, it's been so bad for the motor traders' nerves.

But there you are. This is probably nothing. One of these days the Government Information Bureau is going to "issue" a statement: "The Government has a secret. Guess what?" And they'll leave it at that.

Iron Ball

A young man is playing a quite delightful game in Dorset street, sitting in the cab of a travelling crane and dropping a large iron ball on top of the air-raid shelters. The idea works perfectly. The air-raid shelters almost immediately fall to pieces.

The machine has at least five gear levers, in addition to a row of pedals, and a large vertical wheel. The young man plays upon these instruments as if upon an organ, raising the iron ball high into the air and letting it go with a jerk that shakes the teeth in his head. When he gets really mad he swings the ball backwards and forwards, with a stab of the foot in the bass. The walls of the shelters collapse like telegraph poles.

These machines have been in use for many years, but the one now performing in Dorset street is an up-to-the-minute 50 h.p. Diesel job, with an exceptionally accurate hydraulic control.

The young man in charge says that it takes about a month before you can be certain of hitting even an air-raid shelter. In the hands of an inexperienced operator he thinks the iron ball might do some destruction to passing omnibuses.

The firm which has hired this machine is handling the demolition of 641 shelters, with a time-limit of forty weeks. Another firm will be responsible for the destruction of the remaining 56. We started with 701, but four have already gone.

Carte Blanche

American Export Airlines have sent me a love letter by the first land plane to arrive at Rineanna from the U.S.A. The letter is postmarked: "Boston. October 23rd, 1945."

On the envelope is a picture of the world, surmounted by the company's flag. Under this design is the inscription: "First Commercial Land Plane Flight Overseas. American Airlines System. October, 1945." The letter bears a 30 cent. air-mail stamp.

So I open this letter. So what do I find inside? A plain sheet of cardboard, blank. No word of greeting, no inquiry about whether all are well at home, nothing.

I threw away the envelope, of course, but I'm keeping the card. There may be secret writing on it, which will be revealed by an acid bath.

"THE WORLD OF THE LITTLE PEOPLE"

Illustration, for books and otherwise, is a branch of art in itself. There have been some famous illustrators, such as Phiz, who illustrated some of Dickens's work. Great artists have undertaken it—one thinks immediately of Boticelli's illustrations to Dante; and there is no reason why such works should not also be works of art.

The character of Naomi Heather's work which is on view at Arts, Ltd., O'Connell street, Dublin, may be gathered from her title, "The World of the Little People." There is a certain feminine delicacy about it; this is particularly evident in "The Princess and the Golden Apples" and "Leprecaun"—coloured drawings of tiny men in red caps among toadstools growing from tree trunks. It is the minor world of fantasy which pleased small children. One cannot say, however, that her work in this line shows originality; nor is it particularly well done. One of the chief faults is that she puts too much into her picture. Her fairy world, it seems, is overcrowded.

In her simpler work her fantasy is better expressed, as in "Gypsies," and in the pleasant "Mermaids"—a picture of youthful fairies following a fisherman's boat.

LIME SCHEME "RACKET" ALLEGED IN MAYO

Gross irregularities in the distribution of lime were alleged at a meeting of Mayo Agricultural Committee when it was announced the Department was making a grant of £6,000, the County Committee to contribute £650.

A member of the committee said the practice was to apply for the limit of 20 barrels and accept delivery of ten, which they would get free, and the secretary said that, unfortunately, the complaint was well founded.

AN CUMANN GAEDHEALAC

The Gaelic Society of U.C.D. last night passed a motion by 23 votes to 2 that the name of the Society be changed to An Cumann Gaedhealac. Mr. P. O Fiaich, Auditor of the Society, who proposed the motion, explained that it became necessary as a result of the refusal of the college authorities to recognise the right of the members of the Society to change its name, as had been done recently.

The value of VIROL in dietary deficiency

It is well known that without sufficient vitamins, a diet cannot be adequate.

VIROL increases the supply of vitamins in the diet; but it does more than this. It provides in balanced proportions all the other essential food factors in which ordinary meals are likely to be lacking.

VIROL is a concentrated food prepared from Malt Extract, specially refined animal fats, eggs, sugars (including glucose) and orange juice, with added mineral salts, vitamins, etc.

VIROL is pleasant to take and easy to digest. It is suitable for children of all ages, for invalids, convalescents, in fact for everybody who needs a supplementary food.

VIROL COMPLETES THE DIET
★ Virol is again available, in limited quantities at present, at most chemists and stores.

Friar's Fancy for the Cambridge

By BIRDCATCHER

A LARGE field, of somewhat moderate quality, will contest the first post-war Cambridgeshire at Newmarket to-day. The issue appears very open, but I expect the winner to emerge from a group including Hobo, Silver Strap, Vicinity, Red Robin and Friar's Fancy. The last-named has had only one outing this season, but had some useful form to his credit last year. There has been significant support for him in the ante-post betting, and he will be suited by the going.

Vicinity won his last race in really impressive style; he should go close here, and his undoubted touch of class might enable him to win outright. On his best form, Red Robin can be given an excellent chance, and he appeals as a good each-way investment.

The vote goes to Friar's Fancy, who is taken to win from Vicinity and Red Robin.

EIGHT RUGBY TEAMS STILL UNBEATEN

WITH the Rugby season six weeks old there are still eight teams in the country who have won all their matches. Of these, Corinthians, the Galway side, have played only once, and Young Munster only twice. Dublin University and University College, Cork, have each won on their only three appearances.

Trinity share their hundred per cent. record in Leinster with Clontarf and Wanderers, each with five wins to their credit; and these two, who meet at Castle avenue next Saturday, can fairly claim to be the leading Leinster clubs so far.

SIMILAR RECORDS

There is a strong similarity between their records. Clontarf have averaged a shade over 14 points per match. Wanderers, in their five games, have totalled only a point less. Clontarf have conceded 22 points, Wanderers 25 points. Highest score by each side has been 20 points, and both have included among their victims team from outside Leinster.

In the North, Instonians and N.I.F.C. have been sweeping all before them. N.I.F.C. ran up the highest total of the season when they trounced Fleet Air Arm 43-8, Instonians winning 35-3 against the same side. Collegians have yet to win a game, and in this connection it is worth while recalling an occasion some years back when Wanderers, unbeaten until after Christmas, were well and truly hammered at Lansdowne road by Collegians, who that day scored their first win of the season.

Garryowen, who were held to a draw by a junior club and beat them in the replay of the Limerick Charity Cup, figure next best in the percentages; but their record probably means less than that of the Leinster Cup-holders, Old Belvedere.

Held to a scoreless draw in their first game by Blackrock, and subsequently beaten by Dublin University, Belvedere have won their other three matches, still playing in the style of a team that has not made up its mind about settling down to work

Of the other Leinster teams, only Palmerston can improve on the 50 per cent. mark, on which mark we find Lansdowne.

ROBERTSON TOP SCORER

Top scorer in Leinster is A. B. Robertson (Wanderers), with one try, three penalties and four converts—a total of 20 points. Next comes Flynn (Palmerston), with 16 points—a try, three penalties and two converts. Johnston (U.C.D.) and Thorpe (Old Belvedere) are on the 15-points mark, with O'Donnell (Lansdowne) next, with 14 points. B. Quinn (Old Belvedere) and F. J. Moran (Clontarf) have each scored 13 points; Mooney (Blackrock) has totalled 11 points, and McGauran (St. Mary's) 10 points. These are the only players in Leinster to have reached double figures.

TOURISTS' HARD FIGHT

NEW ZEALAND .. 16 LLANELLY .. 8

The New Zealand Army team won the second match of their Rugby tour when beating Llanelly at Llanelly by two goals and two tries to a goal and a penalty goal, but they had to fight very hard.

Speedy running by the New Zealand backs brought tries by Allen and Nelson, both being converted by Cook. Before the interval Bevan reduced the deficit with a penalty goal.

In the second half Bond added another try for the New Zealanders, but a Llanelly rally brought a try by O. Williams, which F. Rees improved. A last-minute New Zealand try by Dobson clinched the issue.

Problems of the Irish Cesarewitch

BY OUR RACING CORRESPONDENT.

THE race for the Irish Cesarewitch will be run at Phœnix Park next Saturday, and by the look of things the fields will be far smaller than usual. In point of class, it is little more than an ordinary handicap, but as handicaps go it is a particularly interesting one.

For instance, the recent St. Leger winner, Spam, is among the acceptors, and for some reason St. Leger winners have seldom run in this race.

He is a heavily-moulded chestnut gelding. After running unplaced six times, he came out in a maiden race at Phœnix Park and landed a considerable gamble without difficulty. He followed this by winning a race for maidens at entry at Baldoyle, and then he decisively outstayed Covent Garden and Redbay in the St. Leger. He is a greatly improved gelding.

Judged by his performances and by his pedigree—he is a half-brother to Tiverton and Banavie—he will not be troubled by the distance on Saturday. Nor do I think 8st. 10lb. on his back will worry him very much.

HANDICAP POSERS

There is one factor which strikes me as very important about this Cesarewitch; it may, indeed, be the key to the whole problem. That is the difficulty in reconciling the running of certain horses in flat races with their running in hurdle races. There are two outstanding examples.

In the £1,000 Hurdle Race at Leopardstown, Prince Toi, who won, gave 9lb. and a three lengths' beating to Distel, who finished third. Now, running over the same distance, but without any sticks in their way, Distel is set to give Prince Toi 26lb. It is asking a great deal of him.

Yet Distel was, in all probability, the best three-year-old in Ireland last year, and was unlucky not to win this very race carrying a heavy weight. Prince Toi, at eight years, is still a maiden on the flat.

However, he finished fourth in the Lincolnshire, and in May he came within a length of Ford Transport, to whom he gave 28lbs., at Baldoyle. He would seem well handicapped with Mr. Myerscough's colt now. There is no doubt that Prince Toi is a very fast horse, and, hurdles or no hurdles, I think he would win this race on hard going.

King of the Jungle and Desdichado make up the second example. In the Galway Hurdle King of the Jungle gave Desdichado two stone, and was fortunate to beat him by a short head. All the same, he did beat him. On Saturday, Desdichado has to give King of the Jungle 2lbs.

It seems as if King of the Jungle, a very useful horse on the flat, should beat Desdichado. He ran gamely and well at the Curragh last Saturday week, when, with bottom weight, he divided Stalino and Cardy by a neck and a head in the Curragh October Handicap.

HAS SOUND CHANCE

He carried a couple of pounds overweight then, and with Herbert Holmes free to ride him now, he holds a fractional advantage over Cardy. At the weights he must be given a very sound chance.

The merits of Desdichado are difficult to estimate. He had done little or nothing for a long time, when his trainer, that very able judge of a jumper, Henry Harty, bought him at the beginning of this year. He soon showed he had not lost the form which enabled him to beat Prince Toi in an amateur flat race in 1943, and he was a veritable springer in the market on the day of the Galway Hurdle.

After his unlucky Galway failure he virtually ran away with the Kerry Cesarewitch at Listowel. Those behind him were not a particularly high class company, but the way he won was faultless. He is far from unfairly treated in this more ambitious Cesarewitch. Should he win, it will be a notable double for his sire, the Pharos horse Link Boy, for he is also sire of Poolfix, winner of this year's Cambridgeshire.

SOUTHERN CHALLENGER.

Another acceptor from the South is the Bobsleigh five-year-old, Drybob. Last year he ran a dead-heat for the Cambridgeshire and afterwards finished fourth to his stable companion, Good Days, in the Cesarewitch. So far this season his running has been disappointing, but if he is back to his best he is bound to finish in the fighting line. His weight, 9st., is the same as he carried last year.

Then there is Cardy. He was rated highly among last season's three-year-olds, but, though he showed an inkling of his true form in the Curragh October Handicap, he has fallen from grace this year.

He is by no means a spent force, however, and in this class he must be taken very seriously into calculations. So, too, must the grey horse, Wykehamist. He stays well and is capable of producing a fine turn of speed. He may have needed his last two races.

It is possible that Desdichado will make a successful journey from the South, and thereby follow in the footsteps of the war-time winners, Astrometer and Good Days. He has ample stamina, he is in no way devoid of speed and he will carry a light-weight. These three qualities may help him to win an open—if not an outstanding—Irish Cesarewitch.

The opening meet of the Kilkenny Hounds, of which Major Dermot McCalmont, M.C., Mount Juliet, Thomastown, is Master, will take place at the Club House Hotel, Kilkenny, on Monday at 11 o'clock.

Eight Months' Imprisonment In Conspiracy Case

ON a charge of conspiracy, with intent to defraud, John J. McDonnell (53), Glencork road, was at Dublin Circuit Criminal Court yesterday found guilty, and sentenced to eight months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

He was found not guilty on a second charge of having caused Mrs. Sarah Fogarty, 31 Thatch road, Whitehall, to obtain from the British Ministry of Pensions a war service grant by pretending she was not in receipt of any allowance from her husband's former employees.

Mr. F. Sherry (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuting, said that Mrs. Fogarty, on undertaking to repay the money wrongfully obtained, had been bound over in the Dublin District Court.

Mrs. Fogarty, in evidence, said that her husband, who had been employed by Messrs. Maguire and Paterson, joined the British Army in 1939. She received £2 9/8 from the British Government and £3 3/10 weekly from Maguire and Paterson. McDonnell called to her house, and said he would write for a war grant for her. He wrote the letter and signed her name. When she received an application form subsequently McDonnell filled it up and signed her name. Some time later he brought her to Merrion square, and told her not to answer questions before she looked at him, when he would nod. When asked if she was being paid by her husband's former employers, McDonnell shook his head and she said she was not paid. She later received a war service grant of 8s. a week from November, 1943, to May, 1944. She subsequently loaned McDonnell sums of money, amounting to £3.

Detective-Sergeant N. Gordon said that, in a statement, McDonnell alleged it was at Mrs. Fogarty's request he had written the letters to the Ministry, and, when he learned she was being paid her husband's wages, he reported the matter to the Ministry.

Irish News in Brief

Killed in Lorry Accident.—A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest in Dr. Steevens's Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, on Thomas P. Roche (5½), of 9 Taylor lane, who was knocked down by a lorry on October 22nd and died four days later.

Educational Appointments.—Dun Laoghaire Vocational Education Committee has appointed Mr. Hourigan as art master; Mr. C. J. Walsh as teacher of Pitman's Shorthand, and Miss M. J. Barnett, B.Comm., as teacher of typewriting.

Pacific War Reviewed.—Captain J. Groothoff, Dutch Merchant Service, gave a lecture entitled, "A Review of the War in the Pacific" at the Maritime Institute of Ireland last night. An Seabhac, President of the Institute, presided.

Stole Employer's Cattle.—William Costello (43), Fassaugh road, Cabra, was sentenced at Kilmainham to six months' imprisonment, to be suspended on his entering into bail himself in £100 and one surety of £100 for three years, for stealing eight head of cattle from his employer, W. P. Donohue, Stoneybatter, Dublin.

Water Supply for Granard.—Longford County Council have authorised the County Engineer to proceed with the provision of a water supply to the town of Granard at an estimated cost of £10,000. The scheme was originally recommended by Mr. N. O'Dwyer, M.I.C.E.I.

No Sugar for Bees.—The Minister for Industry and Commerce has informed bee-keepers that he will not be able to make any sugar allowance for feeding bees during the coming winter. Bee-keepers should retain sufficient honey for this purpose.

Manslaughter Charge Dismissed.—Thomas B. Reynolds (20), of Headford, Co. Galway, a student of U.C.G., was acquitted, at Mayo yesterday, on a charge of killing a boy named Michael McDonogh, Turin, Kilmaine, by hitting him with a motor vehicle.

Position of Irish In Britain Raised in Lords

The Earl of Cork and Orrery asked in the House of Lords yesterday whether those Irish men and women who had assisted in the war effort, either in the armed forces or by civilian war work, and who thereby have become entitled to full benefit under the Unemployment Insurance Acts, will, if they return to Ireland, cease to be legally entitled to benefit? He asked also whether, if this is so, His Majesty's Government will make suitable arrangements with the Government of Eire for the formation of a special fund, to be administered in Eire, for the purpose of preventing hardship among Irish volunteers?

Lord Addison replied that the matter was at present under consideration, and suggested that the Earl put the question down for a later date, say in December.

Freedom Asked For Mr. de Valera

A suggestion that Mr. de Valera should be asked to accept the Freedom of Londonderry City was made by Councillor MacGeehan at the meeting of the Derry Corporation yesterday.

Councillor MacGeehan said that for the purpose of good relations, and as a gesture, the Taoiseach should be asked to accept the honorary Freedom of the City. "We have recently conferred it on three men of war," he said, "and why not now on a man of peace? He is a diplomat, a scholar, and one of the greatest statesmen in Europe to-day."

Councillor McGeehan was protesting against the Stormont Government's plans for the exclusion of twenty-six counties' people from residence in the six counties, arising out of the operation of the residence permit system.

The Corporation proceeded to the next business.

Smyth's Great Fight Against Champion

By P. D. MacWEENEY

THE Ulster Hall was packed out last night for the first visit of an English amateur boxing team to Belfast since 1939. The English Northern Counties furnished the opposition, and the big fight of the night, between J. Williamson, A.B.A. light-weight champion, and G. Smyth, Irish title-holder, was a fierce battle from start to finish, and at one stage it looked like providing a sensation.

Williamson seemed utterly exhausted at the end of the fourth round. In recovering be showed fine ringcraft, and Smyth had not the strength to push home his advantage. The Irishman had been boring in steadily under heavy punishment.

Smyth has never shown in Dublin anything like his form of last night. He was up against a man with more speed and a longer reach, yet he landed some of the most telling punches of the fight with well-timed hooks, and revealed a surprisingly accurate straight left.

The A.B.A. junior welter champion, V. Harrison, proved too strong and aggressive for the Ulster junior champion, A. Midgeley, and knocked him out in the third round with a perfectly-timed left-right to the jaw. Harrison is not a clever boxer, but his rushing, swinging tactics proved effective, and he hits hard.

As lively an affair between juveniles as one could wish to see was the bout in which J. Farrell, Irish 8st. juvenile champion, beat M. Lawler, 7st. 7lb. junior champion of Britain. There was little to choose between them, but Farrell was attacking all the time, and that gained him the verdict.

J. King, Irish welter champion, who had been reported as being in hospital with a broken leg, sustained at soccer, appeared—looking fit and well—for his bout with D. Richardson, and outpointed his opponent in a scrappy bout.

W. E. Barnes, who showed exceptional promise in winning the Irish fly-weight title in 1944, but subsequently dropped out through illness, boxed beautifully in his comeback against W. J. Roberts, Northern Counties champion last year.

F. Bell, a fast heavy-weight, knocked out the Ulster junior champion in the second round, and showed an impressive right-hook in doing so. Taylor was down twice before being counted out.

The Belfast boxers won four of the seven bouts against cross-Channel opponents.

Juvenile—J. Farrell (North City) beat M. Lawlor (Birkenhead) on points; J. Fields (St. John Bosco) beat I. Davenport (Birkenhead) on points.

Bantam—J. McMullen (Windsor) beat T. Bloomer (Crown) in first round; T. Martin (Windsor) beat H. O'Neill (St. George's) on points.

Light-weight—J. Williamson (Birkenhead) beat G. Smyth (St. George's) on points.

Welter—V. Harrison (Birkenhead) k.o. A. Midgeley (Crown) in third round.

Fly-weight—W. E. Barnes (Victory) beat W. J. Roberts (Birkenhead) on points.

Cruiser-weight—Constable W. R. Jordan (R.U.C.) k.o. Corporal J. May (Irish Guards) in first round.

Welter-weight—J. King (Short and Harlands) beat D. Richardson (Birkenhead) on points.

Heavy-weight—F. Bell (Birkenhead) k.o. Constable H. Taylor (R.U.C.) in second round.

BOXING TEAM TO MEET NORTHERN COUNTIES

The Standing Committee of the I.A.B.A. at their meeting in the Stadium last night granted permission for the R.U.C. to stage a tournament between an Irish selection and the Imperial Services' team in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, on November 27th. The Ulster Council will select the team in consultation with Standing Committee.

The Jewish Boxing Club were also granted permission to hold a tournament on December 22nd. Four English boxers will be included in this programme.

The Committee made the following selection for the Ireland v. Northern Counties of England fixture on November 30th in the Stadium:—

Fly—J. Foley (St. Andrews); sub., Pte. J. Moloney (Army). Bantam—Gnr. J. Murray (Army), sub., G. Morahan (North City). Feather—W. Gifford (Army); sub., O. Brazil (Tralee). Light—M. McCullough (Athlone); sub., A. McDermott (St. Andrews). Welter—T. Hyde (Cork); sub., M. Talbot (Tramway). Middle—M. McKeon (I.T.C.); sub., T. McNamee (Cork). Cruiser—H. O'Hogan (Guinness); sub., W. Duggan (Moyra). Heavy—G. Colman (North City); sub., E. O'Keefe (Cork).

DOWN 7 TIMES

In one of the most sensational fights ever seen at the Royal Albert Hall, London, Al Phillips (Aldgate), contender for the British feather-weight title, knocked-out Danny Webb, the coloured Canadian, in the sixth round. Webb spent nearly a full minute of the first round on the canvas, being down seven times.

Bantam-weight (6 rds.)—Tommy Madine (bantam-weight champion of Ireland) beat Jimmy Webster (West Ham) on points.

Welter-weight—Johnny Walters (Ireland) beat Harry Silver (Clapton), the referee stopping the fight in the fourth round.

DROP OF 15/- IN G.N. ORD.

TRADING was more restricted on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and a hesitant note was evident in most departments. Home Government Funds displayed firmness, on good buying, and the undertone among Irish Industrials was mainly firm. Small selling produced an easier trend, in places, among British Industrials.

Conversion 4 p.c. Loan advanced 15/- to 109½, and Fourth National Loan 10/- to 108½, while 4 p.c. Exchequer Bonds moved up to 108. British Funds inclined easier. Guinness units encountered profit-taking, and reacted 9d. to 153/6. Cairnes Pref. and Power Deb. held their recent firmness. There was rather heavy selling of Gt. Northern Ord., and it fell 15/- to 32¾. The Pref. firmed up to 50½, and the Guar. improved a point to 79½. Coras Iompair issues were well maintained.

Draperies were a shade busier, and McBirney Pref. rose to 16/1½. Burke issues were supported, and the Pref. hardened to 11/3, while the Deb. made headway to 11½. Cement Ord. rose to 55/3, but Clondalkin Paper Ord. eased to 7/7½. Ever-Ready (Ireland) Ord. were in keen demand, and strengthened to 15/-; but Independent "B" Ord. dipped to 102/6. Solus "A" Ord. were dealt in at the unchanged level of 44/-, before the dividend announcement.

Old Consols Reach a New High Level at 92

FROM OUR LONDON FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT

THE Stock Markets yesterday displayed considerable irregularity as the outcome of continued scattered selling. International politics caused a good deal of uncertainty, but in some directions quite good business was transacted.

Foreign Bonds were generally depressed on the uncertain outlook, especially Chinese issues, while Potash Loan fell back on profit-taking. Argentine Railways were generally weak following the Central Argentine report for the past year, which shows a big rise in costs.

Industrials finished with a good deal of irregularity. Iron, Coal and Steel shares were better in places. Breweries gave way in spots, but Ind Coope continued firm at 114/6. Textiles came in for some attention. Bolton Cotton Waste jumped up to 12/-, while West Riding Worsted continued firm at 84/1½. In the Shipping group, Clan Line and P. and O. Defd. were firm markets, but Orient Steam slipped back 1/- and Anchor Line 6d. Insurance shares showed some improvement, notably London Assurance at 17¼.

There was again some very firm support for Sunday Pictorial, which jumped up 4/- to 72/6 following the increased dividend. Associated Biscuits continued firm at 33/1½, while Broom and Wade appreciated nearly 1/- to 25/3. Clover Paint rose 10½d. to 17/9. On the other hand, leading Tobaccos showed dullness, and declines of several pence were recorded by A. W. Gamage, Crosse and Blackwell, Dunlops, Purnells and Anglo-Newfoundland Development. Odeons, after showing firmness earlier, slipped back and closed 1/- off at 2¼, while Hudson's Bay weakened to 91/7½. Swears and Wells lost nearly 1/- at 22/4½. Canadian Marconi moved up 1/6 to 24/6, but De Havilland declined over 1/- to 35/6. Manchester Ship Canal hardened a few pence to 8/7½. Tokio Electric 6 p.c. suffered a setback of 1½ points to 50½. Stoll Theatres were firm at 19/4½. Decca Record were favoured following the meeting, and closed 7½d. better at 57/6. Motor shares remained dull. Internationals were unsettled.

A feature of the Gilt-Edged section was the renewed marked firmness of Old Consols, which jumped up ⅝ to the fresh high level since 1935 at 92, while War Loan 3½ per cents. were supported and moved up ⅛ to 103½. Local Loans gained ⅛, but War Loan 3 per cents. receded ¼ to 102½. National Defence Bonds weakened, notably 2½ per cents. at 100 3/16. National War Bonds continued to droop. Home Railways were neglected, but on the whole steady. Oils continued dull, with Shells and Burmahs 1/32 lower. Rubbers kept steady. Kaffirs were less active and registered some irregularity, but Blyvoor Union Corporation and General Mining gained ⅛. Venterspost further appreciated to 2 17/32. E. Rand Cons. were good at 15s. 7½d., but Anglo-American Corporation receded 1/16 and West Wits. fell back ⅛. Diamonds were dull. Elsewhere, Falcon Mines and Selection Trust were good markets at 28s. 9d. and 34s. 6d., respectively.

The reports and accounts of Lever Brothers and Unilever, Ltd., have for many years been exceptionally informative. At the annual meeting yesterday Mr. Geoffrey Heyworth, the Chairman, stated that in future an endeavour would be made to show something of the way in which the company's operations are planned. Mr. Heyworth stressed the international character of the business, and declared that much had been learnt from the local techniques in dealing with the raw materials available, as well as from competitors. It was important, he said, to remember in these days, when exports are so important, that, with the one exception—the U.S.A.—the technical staffs of those establishments had been trained in Britain or Holland, with the direct consequence that plant and machinery for those units abroad were largely ordered from Britain.

Possibilities For Wool Industry

An optimistic view of the future of the wool industry is expressed by the Chairman of the Aire Wool Co., Ltd., in a statement included with the annual accounts.

In the past success had been due rather to happy guessing as to the movement in values than to efficiency in processing. Under the joint organisation set up by the British and Dominion Governments, aiming at liquidating the unparalleled accumulation of raw wool, prices would be stabilised and success would depend on the best mechanical, technical and commercial efficiency. The main problem now was to build up the full working labour complement.

Wool compared with cotton was in the happy position of requiring no dollar exchange. Indeed, wool textiles could quickly secure dollars once export was freely permitted. Old customers were clamouring for the company's products and it was tantalising that exports should be so drastically restricted.

The company's net profit for the past year was £13,578, against £11,622, and the dividend on the £110,000 of Ordinary capital is maintained at 12½ per cent., the same as for each of the four previous years. The 10s. shares are quoted at 26s.

Vermin Exterminated By Insecticide

The general use of D.D.T. or 666 (Gammexane), should result in a decrease of such diseases as typhoid, infantile diarrhoea and infantile paralysis, which were carried by flies, Dr. Bryan P. Beirne, Lecturer of Entomology, stated last night in his presidential address to Dublin University Experimental Science Association.

Its use should also result, he said, in the gradual disappearance of vermin. Experiments made in America showed that if farmyards and cowsheds were sprayed twice yearly with D.D.T., the fly population was reduced to a minimum, and the milk yield of cows was increased.

Dr. A. H. Gregg presided, and the other speakers were Dr. L. J. Burrage, Research Chemist, I.C.I.; Mr. J. A. S. Stendall, Director, Belfast Museum and Art Gallery, and Dr. J. D. MacCormack, Medical Inspector, Department of Local Government and Public Health.

Submission By Defence In N.A.I.D.A. Case

If the number of persons necessary to form a quorum was present at the opening of a meeting that was all that was necessary for the validity of the business subsequently done, was a submission made by Mr. H. J. Moloney, S.C., continuing his argument on behalf of the Federation of Irish Manufacturers, Ltd., yesterday, when the hearing of the action challenging the validity of two meetings of the National Agricultural and Industrial Development Association was resumed before Mr. Justice Overend in the High Court, Dublin.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

The action is by Mr. Michael J. Hennessy, Edenvale road, Ranelagh, Dublin, and three other members of the Association, against the Association and the Federation, and asks for a declaration that extraordinary general meetings of the Association held on March 14th and 31st, 1938, were invalid for lack of a quorum, and that any assignment of the property of the Association at those meetings were invalid.

The action, said Mr. Moloney, was misconceived; it was sought to set aside a contract because the assent of the shareholders had not been got in a regular way, but whether the consent had been regular or not, the shareholders of the company had full knowledge of the nature of the transaction. In view of the long continued knowledge of the nature of the bargain obtained by the amalgamation of the Association and the Federation, and its approval by every individual, the plaintiffs could not claim the right to have it set aside.

Demobilisation of Irish Army Units Starts To-morrow

General demobilisation of reserve units of the Irish Army, called up at the outbreak of the emergency, and of officers and men who joined up for its duration, will start to-morrow. Demobilisation, it is stated, will be spread over eighteen months at the rate of about 2,000 a month. Groups from each military centre in the country will be released, and officers and men resuming studies or employment, or men who have sought release, will be first out.

Contrary to Standing Army regulations, demobilised men may retain all Army clothing issued to them, with the exception of their uniforms. This clothing, it is said, is worth £4 approximately.

Many of the 40,000 men earmarked for demobilisation may not return to civil life immediately. A new regulation for men who have no immediate employment to return to permits the men to rejoin for a further two years, and re-attestation under existing regular Army conditions is open to all N.C.O.s and men of good character.

Present rates of pay will continue, but the extended period of service will not count for gratuities. All gratuities and money accumulated to the men's credit during the emergency will be paid on rejoining.

Irish Income Tax On British Soldiers

Sir Ronald Ross (C., Londonderry) asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the House of Commons yesterday if he was aware that the Government of Eire are charging income tax on ration and other tax-free allowances to citizens of Eire serving in the British Forces, and whether he would represent to the Eire Government that such allowances are only calculated to provide a livelihood when free of tax.

Mr. Dalton, in a written reply, said that he did not think that the matter of income tax in Eire on Eire citizens was one which he could suitably take up with the Eire Government.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

A lecture entitled "Christian Science: the Logical Interpretation of Life" was given by Miss Violet Ker Seymer, Boston, Massachusetts, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, in the Mansion House, Dublin, last night.

She said that every healing experienced through Christian Science confirmed the accuracy of the statement that "health is not a condition of matter, but of mind." She said that, therefore, it is our consciousness that we should watch, holding it receptive only to that which is true. The consciousness of man in God's likeness reflected the all-knowing Divine Mind and was, therefore, harmonious.

Miss Seymer, who was introduced by Mr. J. Carphin, came from London to give this lecture. She will lecture in Belfast, and after that in Paris.

Returned For Trial

John Kavanagh (42), 96 Lismore road, Crumlin, was returned for trial in the Dublin District Courts yesterday on a charge of the attempted murder of his wife, Margaret, at their home on the morning of September 20th last.

Escaped Down Cable From Balloon

TWO U.S. Army officers escaped from a runaway balloon by sliding down a 250-foot cable to the ground in a high wind in the Province of Quebec yesterday. They were attempting to reach Newfoundland.—(Reuter.)

GENERAL EISENHOWER'S WARNING

GENERAL EISENHOWER, in a radio speech last night from Wiesbaden to the New York Herald Tribune forum, urged that military control of the United States occupation zone in Germany should be ended as soon as possible.

"No matter how wise, humane, firm and understanding soldiers may be, the future task here—at least its constructive features—is, by American concepts of Government, a civilian rather than a military function," he stated, and added:

"Suspicion, hunger, privation, fear of disease and death dwell in great sections of the earth, and unless international co-operation meets this challenge with firmness, forbearance and wisdom, the resulting chaos could well become another Vesuvius, with civilisation the Pompeii."

At his Press conference yesterday President Truman, says Reuter, endorsed the suggestion made in a letter from General Eisenhower that next June 1st should be set as a goal for transferring the government of Germany from military to civilian hands.

The President admitted that no expression of views on this subject had yet been received from Britain, France and Russia. He said that the civil organisation would be under direct orders from himself, and the same arrangements would eventually be followed in Japan.

FRENCH UNWILLING

Commenting on General Eisenhower's assertion that French unwillingness to agree to the establishment of a central German administrative machinery had impaired progress of the Council's work, a French spokesman yesterday in Paris, according to A.P., said: "France intends to stick to her stand in an effort to force a decision on internationalising the Ruhr and detaching the Rhineland from Germany."

Writs for Five By-Elections

Writs for the five by-elections will be moved in the Dail on November 14th, and the elections will take place within the 21 days' statutory period — probably on December 4th or 5th. The vacancies are: — North-west Dublin (F.F.), caused by the elevation of Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly to the Presidency; South Kerry (F.F.), caused by the death of Mr. Frank Crowley; Mayo South (F.F.), caused by the election of Mr. Michael O'Clery as Registrar of Co. Dublin; Wexford (Lab.), caused by the death of Alderman Richard Corish; and Clare (F.G.), caused by the death of Mr. P. Burke.

It was learned last night that the Fine Gael Party will contest the five vacancies, and a convention will be held on Saturday at Castlebar, attended by General R. Mulcahy and General Sean MacEoin, to select a candidate for South Mayo. Fine Gael conventions will also be held on Sunday at Wexford and Killarney, and it is expected that a Fine Gael convention will also be held in Clare during the week-end.

Cordell Hull Cleared

Documents recently seized by the United States Navy in a Japanese cruiser have cleared Mr. Cordell Hull, former U.S. Secretary of State, of any implication that he pressed the button which started the war with Japan, Mr. Byrnes, Secretary of State, said yesterday.

Henry Ainley Dead.—Henry Ainley, the actor, died yesterday, aged 66, it was announced by the B.B.C. He had been in poor health for some years and had retired from the stage in 1932.—(P.A.)

THE International Labour C ference yesterday, in Pa rejected protests by the Brit workers' delegation against credentials of the Irish work delegation, selected by the I Government from the Congress Irish Unions, and not by the I Trade Union Congress.

The Conference adopted the port of the Credentials' Commit which also expressed the h "that in all circumstances, accordance with the provisions the I.L.O.
